Some Fast Facts About Latinos or Hispanics

In the U.S.:

- Hispanics are the fastest-growing group in the United States; now the largest “minority.”
- In 2005 there were nearly 42 million Latinos in the U.S., accounting for over half of the people added to the nation’s population since the 2000 Census. The growth rate of this group is over four times that of the total population (4.4 percent). (2004 Census Bureau Community Survey)
- The U.S. Hispanic population will increase by almost 25 million people by 2020, and second-generation Hispanics will account for 47 percent of that growth. (Pew Hispanic Center)
- For the first time, second- and third-generation Hispanics account for most of the growth in the Hispanic population, replacing new immigrants, who fueled the growth in the past. (Pew Hispanic Center)

In Missouri:

- The Latino population almost doubled in Missouri (92%) in the period 1990-2000. The estimated Missouri Hispanic population for the year 2005 is 155,519, an increase from 118,617 in the 2000 census. (Missouri Census Data Center)
- The Latino population has increased in 110 of the 114 counties of the state of Missouri. Latinos come to Missouri to work. Overwhelmingly, newcomers have steady jobs and pay taxes, and an increasing number buy cars and homes: they are new Missourians.
- Latino entrepreneurs are now engaging more intensively in new enterprises, including farming and construction.
- Kansas City ranks eleventh nationally among the fastest growing Latino populations residing in urban centers.
- Meatpacking rural counties—Sullivan, McDonald, Pettis, Lawrence, Saline, and Jasper—experienced from a 4 to 20-fold increase in their Latino population.
- Small cities, such as Joplin, Branson, Springfield, Columbia, Jefferson City, and Warrensburg have doubled or tripled their representation of Latinos.

About the Cambio de Colores Conference

Since 2002, the annual “Cambio de Colores” conference has convened researchers, practitioners, and community members to discuss issues influenced by Hispanic/Latino immigration in the Midwest. The conference goal is to contribute to a smooth and lasting integration of new residents and the main objectives of the conference are:

- To assess community changes resulting from the presence of Hispanic/Latino residents in urban and rural Missouri;
- To understand the contributions and opportunities that Hispanic residents offer to the State and its people, communities, businesses, and educational institutions;
- To provide a forum addressing successes and challenges of Hispanic/Latino residents and the communities where they settle;
- To identify promising practices, knowledge, and services available, as well as the gaps that exist in the State and the region.

The motto of the 2007 conference, “Everyone Together / Todos juntos,” underlines the need for all stakeholders—regardless of who they are or where they come from—to engage themselves in the process of integrating everyone in their communities.

This conference will have a bi-state flavor as the Kansas City Metropolitan Area spans five counties on both sides of the Missouri and Kansas state line. Kansas City is unique in that it is home to the largest and longest established Hispanic/Latino community in Missouri. Consequently, it is home to many Hispanic/Latino serving agencies that have operated for several decades. The conference will showcase some of these agencies through onsite visits, allowing participants the opportunity to learn about their history, successes and challenges, and approaches to accommodating the needs of Hispanic/Latino newcomers and their receiving communities.

Cambio de Colores is a collaborative effort of the University of Missouri campuses and Extension, other educational institutions in the State, and government and private organizations. It draws researchers, practitioners, and community members not only to identify and discuss current research, but also to explore hands-on, applicable practices that address critical needs and the means to replicate them.

With everyone together, it is anticipated that individuals and organizations across Missouri and the Heartland, will more effectively and efficiently improve the quality of life for all Missouri residents through shared knowledge, resources, and capabilities.

Brief History of the Conference

The Hispanic and Latin American Faculty & Staff Association of the University of Missouri-Columbia (HLAFSA), established in late 1999, took a principal role in creating and leading this conference series, with the enthusiastic support of the University of Missouri System institutions, and the collaboration of many organizations in Missouri. Since 2005, the Cambio Center for Research and Outreach on Latinos and Changing Communities is the main organizer of this annual effort. The Cambio Center was established by the University of Missouri-Columbia in the fall of 2004.

The groundbreaking, three-day event took place in March 2002 at the University of Missouri-Columbia: “Cambio de Colores (Change of Colors) – Latinos in Missouri: A call to action!” A synthesis of the experiences, facts and knowledge derived from this conference is the monograph Cambio de Colores. Immigration of Latinos to Missouri, which remains a state-of-the-art publication (available for download at www.cambiodecolores.org/library).

In 2003, “Cambio de Colores (Change of Colors) – Latinos in Missouri: Neighbors in Urban and Rural Communities” convened at the campus of the University of Missouri-Kansas City. In 2004, “Cambio de Colores (Change of Colors) – Latinos in Missouri: Gateway to a New Community” was hosted by the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

In 2005, “Cambio de Colores (Change of Colors). – Latinos in Missouri: Connecting Research to Policy and Practice - Hoy y mañana” returned to the campus of the University of Missouri-Columbia. In 2006, “Cambio de Colores (Change of Colors) – Latinos in Missouri: Beyond Borders” convened again in Columbia, marking the fifth successful gathering.

Institutional support for the 2007 conference is being provided by the University of Missouri-Kansas City, especially through the Alianzas program, a joint effort of the Institute for Human Development and the University of Missouri Extension service.

General Information

About the Conference Content

The 2007 conference will have a bi-state flavor as metropolitan Kansas City is included in both Missouri and Kansas. Kansas City is home to Missouri's largest and longest established Hispanic/Latino communities. Kansas City is unique in that its greater metropolitan area spans five counties across the Missouri-Kansas state lines, and it is home to many Hispanic/Latino serving agencies that have operated for many decades. This year's conference will showcase some of these agencies so that participants may learn their history, their successes and challenges, as well as their approaches to accommodating the needs of Hispanic/Latino newcomers in their communities.

The conference program builds on the sharing of university and community resources ranging from academic studies to the practice-perspective of those working at the heart of the changing communities and the everyday experiences of non-professionals. Each year the program changes as we become more experienced in working with our newest residents.

The 2007 conference will continue to provide a platform to present, discuss, share, learn, and identify critical areas needed in developing information and promising practices to facilitate the successful transition of Latino newcomers into our communities.

The presentations in the conference are mostly the result of a Call for Abstracts announced in December of 2006. The conference format includes five Plenary Sessions, and four blocks of concurrent breakout sessions (one reserved for field visits) addressing research, best practices, workshops and discussion panels on the themes of the conference. Also, there will be table display sessions and multiple opportunities for networking. This conference will also look forward to building common-interest networks that may continue to operate during the year.

The five conference themes:

1. Change and Integration
2. Civil Rights
3. Education
4. Health
5. Youth, Families and Communities
